THE LAST EXPRESS
Composed by ELIA CMIRAL
Intrada MAF 7089

"A clue in every car. A stranger in every seat. Danger at every destination." Climb aboard the 1914 Paris-Constantinople express traveling Europe, on the brink of World War I. So begins The Last Express, a fascinating adventure game by Jordan Mechner and winner of numerous awards, including MacWorld's "Best Role Playing Game" award. As CNN describes The Last Express, it's like "A mix of Indiana Jones and Alfred Hitchcock...."

In the tradition of Heart Of Darkness by Bruce Broughton (Intrada MAF 7085) this The Last Express game soundtrack features an evocative and exciting orchestral score by another significant composer, Elia Cmiral. Known for his powerful scores to Ronin and Stigmata, Cmiral is currently working on the new John Travolta sci-fi picture Battlefield Earth. His dark layer of strings keep The Last Express on the rails of mystery while propulsive rhythms provide adventure and excitement.

Intrada is a compact-disc label based in Oakland, California devoted solely to releasing film music and promoting the work of film composers. Founded in 1985, Intrada releases current scores by world-renowned composers as well as newcomers to the field.
