I feel that Joel has made a special gift to me with Great Fairy Rescue's score, because the film and its story is so personal to me...

– Bradley Raymond Director

Hot on the heels of the previous release of Tinker Bell and the Lost Treasure, Intrada and Walt Disney Records present the album for the third film in the series, Tinker Bell and the Great Fairy Rescue. Series composer Joel McNeely is again on the job, delivering another magical, exciting, and soaring score that perfectly complements the first two scores and propels Tinker Bell's third adventure forward. McNeely set the standard for this series, writing for large orchestra comprised of LA's finest musicians to give these direct-to-video adventures an epic, theatrical feel. The album also features the vocals "Summer's Just Begun," "Come Flying with Me," and "How to Believe."

In this third part, Tinker Bell (Mae Whitman) attends fairy camp in the meadows of England and discovers a fairy house made by a human child, Lizzie, where she gets trapped despite warnings from her friend Vidia. While the fairies plot their rescue, Tinker Bell befriends Lizzie and they form a special bond.
